

Restatements (Questions 9-12)

This part consists of several sentences, each followed by four possible ways of restating the main idea of that sentence in different words. For each question, choose the one restatement which best expresses the meaning of the original sentence.

9. Businesspeople in Kaliningrad on the Baltic Sea hope to benefit from the region's special tariff-free status and proximity to Western Europe.
- (1) Many businesspeople have moved to Kaliningrad, located on the Baltic Sea, and have become wealthy by trading with countries in Western Europe.
 - (2) Kaliningrad's location on the Baltic Sea and special status have encouraged many businesspeople from Western Europe to invest money there.
 - (3) Kaliningrad's businesspeople hope to gain financially from the fact that there are no tariffs imposed on goods there and from the region's closeness to Western Europe.
 - (4) Businesspeople in both Kaliningrad and Western Europe hope to reach an agreement concerning tariff-free trade between them so that they can increase their profits.
-
10. The political situation in Hong Kong changed abruptly in April 1992 with the appointment of Chris Patten, who succeeded David Wilson as governor of Hong Kong.
- (1) Conditions in Hong Kong improved dramatically after April 1992, when David Wilson was replaced by Chris Patten – a more successful governor.
 - (2) David Wilson, who was governor of Hong Kong until Chris Patten was appointed to the position in April 1992, made many drastic changes.
 - (3) Due to the rapidly changing situation in Hong Kong, Chris Patten became governor in April 1992 instead of David Wilson.
 - (4) When Chris Patten replaced David Wilson as governor in April 1992, the political situation in Hong Kong suddenly changed.
-
11. Descartes and Galileo – two of the seventeenth century's most prominent thinkers – made a sharp distinction between the physical reality observed by scientists and the subjective reality of the soul, which they considered to be outside the scope of scientific research.
- (1) Descartes and Galileo thought that the subjective reality of the soul could not be researched scientifically, and they believed it was completely different from the physical reality which scientists observe.
 - (2) The view held by Descartes and Galileo – that physical reality and scientific observation are of greater importance than the subjective reality of the soul – was not very popular in the seventeenth century.
 - (3) Because they could not research the subjective reality of the soul scientifically, Descartes and Galileo preferred to concentrate on the distinctions made by scientists when observing physical reality.
 - (4) What distinguished Descartes and Galileo from other seventeenth-century scientists was their insistence that scientific methods be used in studying everything from physical reality to the subjective reality of the soul.
-

- 12. In Zimbabwe, domesticated cattle have grazed side by side with wild animal herds for centuries, to the apparent detriment of neither.
- (1) In Zimbabwe, unlike other countries, domesticated cattle and wild animal herds have grazed on the same lands for many centuries.
 - (2) After living side by side for hundreds of years, Zimbabwe's domesticated cattle and wild animals have begun to fight over grazing land.
 - (3) Zimbabwe's domesticated cattle and wild animal herds no longer share the same grazing lands, as they apparently did for hundreds of years.
 - (4) Centuries of grazing together do not seem to have been harmful either to Zimbabwe's domesticated cattle or to its wild animals.
-